Snow Crystal

Asahidake is famous as the place can be observed the most beautiful snow crystals in Japan.

In this year, breathtaking beautiful snow crystals have been observed by microscope located at entrance of center from late December
Snow crystals can't be seen at any time even if it snows. Depending on weather conditions, but generally, you can see beautiful crystals on days when the temperature is low and there is no wind.

There are no snow crystals with exactly the same shape. The moment I realized each snow crystal has its own shape, I press camera shutter many times. I was fascinated by the beautiful snow crystals during the day.
[Snow crystals observation] is held every day at visitor center
Please dress warmly when you come to observe.
We are looking forward to your participation.

※Depending on the weather condition, the event may not be held. Thank you for your understanding.

Recommended Book

『TenkaranoTegami』 /Ukichiro Nakaya

This book explains the formation of snow crystals in various forms based on the knowledge gained through research by physicist Ukichiro Nakaya, who was fascinated by snow crystals and succeeded in making first production of artificial snow crystals in the world. You can read this book in the visitor center.

『kirakira』/Rokuro Yoshida Shuntaro Tanikawa

This picture book is co-produced by science film director, Rokuro Yoshida and Japanese poet, Shuntaro Tanikawa. This beautiful book composed with echoes of word and snow crystal picture. You can borrow this book at CENTPURE II, the library in town Higashikawa. How about spending time with children and friends by reading this book during Holidays. Experience the world of snow!
