Melting snow around the Sugatami Station, Asahidake Ropeway<Taken 5/23>

Around the Sugatami Park, the snow has melted in some places, but the trail is not visible in some places due to lingering snow. It is necessary to wear rubber boots or waterproof hiking boots because of the risk of overstepping. Some parts of the trail are covered with melting snow, so sneakers and summer shoes can easily get wet. Cloudy skies can cause sudden changes in visibility due to fog and gases caused by rising temperatures. It can get very cold in strong winds, we recommend that you have a warm and waterproof jacket or rainwear. On sunny days the sun's rays and ultraviolet rays will be very stronger, we recommend bringing a hat/sunglasses.
